

ENABLING INNOVATION

Innovation is successful change
Projects are how we deliver it

What should I bring to class?

A laptop – once enrolled, you will be able to download the digital resources that support the day's learning; alternately, you can download and print the paper versions if you are more comfortable working with the old-school tools of the trade.

If you'd like to bring a keep-cup and/or refillable bottle, we provide all-day tea, coffee and water; and if you don't want to bring your own lunch, there are plenty of nearby food options.

LEADING CHANGE

Many organisations are set up to promote stability, routine and predictability. Yet the operating reality is that we are subject to continual pressure for change.

So when should organisations embrace and pursue change?

How much change should be introduced?

What parts of a system should be maintained?

Overcome resistance and successfully lead change in your organisation by inspiring new values, attitudes, norms and behaviours.

Why should I take this Masterclass?

What will I learn in one day?

We get that adults have distinctly different motivations to learn, so we ensure our content is relevant, learners are engaged, learning processes are active and delivery is centred around you.

As well as introducing you to the fundamentals of carefully-planned change management, this Masterclass recognises that change must frequently be managed in urgent, difficult and near-crisis conditions.

Drawing on state-of-the-art theory, we challenge you to practice change management with participant sourced examples from live workplaces.

Who will be teaching me?

Our Certified Project Trainers are:

proven industry expert with over 10 years' practical experience leading complex projects, programs and portfolios of work inspiring communicators creative and critical thinkers, and trained educators, facilitators and mentors.

Importantly, they are not professional lecturers who only learned project management from text-books – they superimpose on the content a wealth of project skill and experience from all stakeholder perspectives that bring project management to life.
